

Investigative Practices and Protection of Your Privacy

The notice applies only to insurance transactions involving insurance primarily for personal, family or household needs.

Dear Policyholder,

As part of our service to you as a policyholder, we want you to understand the investigative practices that may be used to verify pertinent policy information. We want to assure you that we are as concerned as you are about your privacy and we make every effort to protect it.

Collection of Information

Most of the information we get comes directly from you at the time that you apply for insurance. In most cases, this is all the information that we need. Sometimes, however, we may need further information or may need to verify information you've given us. In those cases, you, your spouse, or another adult member of your household may be contacted by us either by phone or by mail.

In some instances, we employ the common insurance industry practice of asking an outside source, called a "consumer reporting agency" or "insurance support organization," to contact you or someone in your household.

Types of Information

The information that is collected is used to help us decide if you qualify for the insurance that you have applied for.

Information such as the use of your vehicle(s), ages and drivers, mileage, items relating to the individual such as personal habits and characteristics, credit items, prior accidents and driving violations, prior arrests or convictions, previous insurance experience, etc., may be requested with regard to your personal vehicles.

Information such as construction type, roof construction, square footage, heating, other physical characteristics, housekeeping habits, personal habits and characteristics, previous insurance experience, etc., may be requested with regard to policies covering your personal property.

This information is kept in a confidential policy file that only members of our organization have access to. We refer to this information for the purpose of issuing and servicing your policy and for settling claims.

What We Do with Information About You

With few exceptions, we generally do not release any of the information that we've collected about you to anyone else without your consent. When the disclosure is necessary for us to conduct our business we may share information about you without your prior consent. We want to assure you that the only persons that this information might be released to would be persons involved with insurance, such as:

1. Your Agent, who may need the information to service your policy.
2. Another insurance company, if you submit an application for insurance to them.
3. Persons who need this information to perform normal business functions for us, such as — lawyers, insurance support organizations, adjusters, appraisers or investigators.
4. Persons conducting scientific research on our behalf. (Any information involving you will not be individually identifiable.)
5. A medical professional to inform you of a medical condition of which you may not be aware.
6. Our affiliated companies.

Information obtained from a report prepared by an insurance support organization may be retained by that organization and disclosed to other persons who use these reports, but only to the extent permitted by Federal and State Fair Credit Reporting Acts.

Access To and Correction of Personal Information

You have the right to know the contents of any recorded personal information that our file may contain about you. You also have the right to receive a copy of this information and to request that we correct, amend or delete any of the information that you feel is in error.

These rights do not extend to information collected in connection with or reasonable anticipation of a claim or civil or criminal proceeding, or to specific items of privileged information when an applicant or policyholder is suspected of fraud, material misrepresentation or material nondisclosure.

If you would like more information about how to review and correct recorded personal information, please write to us and we will be glad to provide you with a description of the necessary procedures.

If, after reading this, you have any further questions, please feel free to contact us or your Farmers Agent.

Notice Required by the Fair Credit Reporting Act

Federal law (15 USC sec. 1681 d), requires all insurance companies to notify their policyholders that an investigation may be made as to character, general reputation, personal characteristics and mode of living, whichever are applicable.

Additional information regarding the nature and scope of any such investigation requested will be furnished to you, upon your written request made within a reasonable time after you receive this notice.

If policy(ies) issued under Farmers Insurance Exchange, forward form to the Regional Office.
